

FERPA Information Release Authorization

HARVARD UNIVERSITY - OPTIONAL STUDENT AUTHORIZATION

The Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act protects the privacy of student education records. This authorization lets Harvard University share only the record categories and with only the people you selected during onboarding.

What this authorization covers

Your saved onboarding choices identify each authorized person, their relationship to you, the permitted record categories, the purpose, and the expiration rule. Harvard will verify identity before releasing records.

Your choices and rights

This authorization is voluntary. You may refuse to authorize disclosure, limit the covered categories, or revoke future disclosure through the Registrar. Revocation does not undo a disclosure already made in reliance on a valid authorization.

This authorization does not permit an authorized person to make enrollment, academic, financial, housing, conduct, or medical decisions for you.

Student confirmation

By signing, I confirm that I reviewed the people, scopes, purpose, and expiration shown in the portal. I authorize Harvard University to disclose the selected education records as described.
